

TOFA 2022

18th Discussion Meeting on Thermodynamics of Alloys

September 12-16, 2022, Krakow, Poland

We are pleased to send out the 2nd announcement for the TOFA 2022 Conference to be held in Krakow, Poland, from Monday September 12th to Friday September 16th 2022. All information can be found on the conference website tofa2022.pl.

TOFA 2022 conference topics include, but are not limited to:

Experimental and theoretical thermodynamics - new results and techniques; Computational thermodynamics; Ab initio calculations; Phase diagrams and phase equilibria; Phase transformations and kinetics, solid state diffusion; Thermodynamics of low-dimensional systems (surfaces and interfaces, nanomaterials); Thermodynamic properties (liquids, solids, amorphous materials); Thermochemistry of metallurgical processes; Industrial applications and process simulation using thermodynamics; Oxides (phase diagrams, corrosion); Thermodynamics of energy storage materials; Thermodynamics of high entropy alloys; Machine learning of thermodynamic properties of alloys.

Call for papers

TOFA 2022 will be a single-track conference with oral sessions, poster presentations and social activities. Abstracts of one page maximum are to be submitted. Each registered participant may submit up to two abstracts for either oral+poster or two posters. Post conference publication is planned in the Journal of Phase Equilibria and Diffusion.

Registration and abstract submission is now open. In the registration module, you create your account, upload your abstract and finalize your registration (payment). Please note that the number of participants, especially students, is limited, so make sure to register early. Exceptionally, TOFA 2022 will be held in parallel to the HTC2022 conference giving both communities an opportunity to meet. Registration to both conferences is subject to a 100 euro surcharge.
